

Ben Rowe
ENGR 110
Peer review efolio
10/25/22

Reviewing: Alexa Chang

About Me | ENGR 110 Notebook \(anchang2.wixsite.com\)

Notes on webpage initially:

- Very presentable homepage
- Nice inclusion of what the project notebook is going to be about
- I like the navigation tabs that you have in the center of the page.
- Great message on how your major will align with this class
- Detailed summary of project reports and team activities
- I would add more color to the page, just not too much to be overwhelming since there's a lot of blank white space on 'Team Project tab'
- very well organized, I think combining some tabs could further make it compact visually, only if this is what you were aiming for.
- You've reminded me that I still need to include my partner's web pages within their Bio
- All of your fonts are legible
- Your links work.
- I would add a hyper link to those embedded google docs so people have the option to view it full-screen within another tab rather than having to zoom in within the webpage.

My overall impression of your website was 'WOW' in all caps. Your homepage was immediately very eye-catching with the soft color of purple (purple is one of my fav colors). I don't know if you plan on changing it, but if you added a picture of what the logo of your application is going to look like on the front page, it'll add more to the advertisement to your page. The white radial saturation circle on the front page might be a little hard on the eyes. Being from a different group, I was able to understand your team's objectives conceptually. However, in terms of how your project is going to look visually. Is still a bit hazy to me. Within your team activities tab that contains the weekly activities, could you possibly include screenshots or pictures of how your website/application is becoming more mobile friendly? That would give us a better understanding of where you're taking the design visually.